Heather Kaneko, a registered nurse in the Progressive Care Unit at Bothwell Regional Health Center, was named the hospital’s 2018 Employee of the Year during its annual Employee Recognition Luncheon on May 15.

Bothwell’s Interim Chief Executive Officer Rose McMullin said Kaneko is known for her positive attitude and her clinical knowledge. “Heather is an excellent nurse,” McMullin said. “She’s a good leader who holds herself and those around her to a high standard. She’s also a very positive and upbeat person.”

Kaneko was selected from among the group of 12 Employees of the Month in 2018. The other nominees were Leslie Shapley, Margaret Benson, Sarah Plante, Christa Frame, Kaslyn Gail, Aaron Davis, Lizzy Ulmer, Rashel Golub, Jacey Etter, Lori Gano, and Christine Lloyd-Knipp.

BRHC also named the 2018 Nurse of the Year and Nursing Support Person of the Year during a National Nurses Week celebration held May 10 at the hospital.

Jordyn Mullins was named the 2018 Nurse of the Year. Mullins is a registered nurse in the hospital’s Critical Care Unit. McMullin said Mullins is a fantastic representative of the hospital through her professionalism, courtesy and competence.

“Jordyn knows that teamwork is what makes the hospital run, and she is always willing to put in the extra work to make sure everyone has a good day here at Bothwell,” McMullin said.

“She not only helps with patient care during their hospital stay, but she also arranges any outpatient needs or at-home care,” the nomination said. “She is professional but honest with all patients and their families regarding their plan of care.” McMullin said Popyk-Wyatt works extremely hard for her patients and for the hospital.

DAISY AWARD

Shasta Nardi is newest DAISY Award winner at Bothwell

Shasta Nardi can't say for sure when she first decided she wanted to be a nurse, but it had to be at an early age. "I never really had any interest in doing anything else," she said. "I found a picture I drew when I was in the third grade of me in a nurse's dress, so I guess you can say I have always wanted to be a nurse."

After graduating high school from Smithton, Nardi went to Boonslick Technical Education Center in Boonville for its licensed practical nurse program. After graduating, she was accepted into the registered nurse program at State Fair Community College, where she graduated in December 2014.

Working at 3 Southwest at Bothwell Regional Health Center, Nardi's nursing skills have not gone unnoticed. During Nurses Week in May, she received the hospital's third DAISY Award for Extraordinary Nurses. She was nominated by the family of a patient in 3 Southwest.

"When entering the room, Shasta makes the patient feel they are the most important thing to her at that moment and that she has their best interest at heart in the care she gives," the nomination said. "She never makes the patient feel rushed even when she has many other patients and responsibilities."

Respectful, patient, a good listener and compassionate were some of the adjectives used by the patient's family in their nomination. Bothwell's Interim Chief Operating Officer Rose McMullin cited the nomination at a DAISY Award presentation during a National Nurses Week Celebration at the hospital on May 10 and at a ceremony at 3 Southwest that was held in Nardi's honor on May 24. "Shasta epitomizes the core values all nurses need in this profession," McMullin said. "She's a wonderful, compassionate and caring nurse."

Nardi said she was shocked and honored to be selected for the award. "I have had lots of people congratulate me, and I honestly just look at them and say, 'I was just doing my job,'" she said. "But I do appreciate the recognition. It makes me feel great that I was able to help a patient and their family be comfortable and make the best of their hospital stay."

The hospital presented Nardi with a certificate commending her for being an "Extraordinary Nurse." She also received a DAISY Award pin and a sculpture called "A Healer's Touch," hand-carved by artists of the Shona Tribe in Africa. Nardi's name will also appear on the DAISY Foundation website as an award recipient.

Nardi said that as a nurse she treats patients and their families how she would want to be treated and how she would treat a member of her own family. Seeing patients get better under her care is one of the most rewarding things about nursing. Even a simple smile and a, "I'm so glad your back" from a patient when she enters the room makes all the hard work worthwhile.

ONE CALL CONVENIENCE

New service launches June 1

Starting June 1, Bothwell and its ancillary clinics are implementing a One Call system. That means whether husband, wife, child, parent or grandparent — whatever the health care need — there's only one phone number the entire family needs: 660-829-8888.

Patients can now call one number to schedule appointments, refill prescriptions or speak to a provider. The One Call system encompasses all the Bothwell's clinics, including Bothwell Cole Camp Clinic and Bothwell Health Center — Truman Lake.

DON'T FORGET TO COMPLETE A HEALTH NEEDS ASSESSMENT SURVEY

FOUNDATION NEWS

Medical Career Scholarships awarded

The Bothwell Foundation recently awarded Medical Careers Scholarships to four local students. The scholarship recipients were Riley Corbett, Dalton Hermanson, Kyler Simonci and Edward Toderescu-Stavila. Each of the students will receive a $500 scholarship from the Bothwell Foundation with an additional $500 in matching funds from the Health Services Group Foundation.

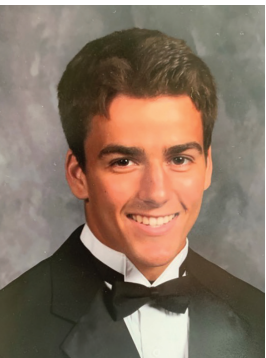

Riley Corbett

Riley Corbett graduated from Knob Noster High School in May and will attend the University of Missouri-Columbia where she will major in Health Science-Health and Wellness Service. She hopes to get a master's degree in Occupational Therapy. Corbett said, "the medical field is changing constantly, and I want to be a part of that change."

Dalton Hermanson

Dalton Hermanson graduated from Smith-Cotton High School this May and will be attending medical school at the University of Missouri-Kansas City. Hermanson has taken many steps to ensure he is ready for the rigorous schooling and career including completing a 40-hour internship with an orthopedic surgeon and joining health professional related organizations.

Kyler Simonci

Kyler Simonci also graduated from Smith-Cotton High School this May. Simonci plans to attend the University of Central Missouri this fall to receive a bachelor's degree in science and then further his education at the University of Missouri-Kansas City for pre-dentistry. "Due to incredible internship opportunities through my school's F.I.T. Internship Program and the Bothwell Medical Explorers program, I found that dentistry is the career for me," Simonci said. "The reward of helping others in dentistry is something I hope to receive as a dentist in the future."

Edward Toderescu-Stavila (photo unavailable) graduated from Smith-Cotton in May and will be attending Washington University in St. Louis where he will study Medical Anthropology (pre-med). Toderescu-Stavila attributes his love for biology and the medical field to his parents' reaffirming their family to pay it forward for the kindness that was shown to their family during a medical emergency for his older brother who was born with gastroschisis (a disorder where his intestines were outside his body following birth). "In an effort to pay it forward, I have always been interested in pursuing a career in the medical field. Just like that surgeon who helped my brother survive in this harsh world, I want to perform surgeries that help children just like him," Toderescu-Stavila said.

FOUNDATION NEWS

$9,000 in Pat Gaunt Nursing Scholarships awarded

The Bothwell Foundation recently awarded $9,000 for the Pat Gaunt Leadership in Nursing Scholarship to seven employees for their continuing education.

Alicia Rayner, a registered nurse (RN) case manager at Bothwell Regional Health Center, was awarded one of the seven scholarships. Rayner is pursuing her master's degree in Nursing at Central Methodist University. "I have found my calling working as a case manager at Bothwell Regional Health Center," Rayner said. "This position has been the happiest I have been throughout my nursing career. My 10-year goal is to be a certified RN case manager."

Jacey Etter began her career in the dietetics department at BRHC in 2015. She then decided to join Bothwell's Unlicensed Assistive Personnel (UAP) program, which made her realize that nursing is her calling. Jacey plans on attending the Saline County Career Center's LPN program this fall.

Chelsie Snapp is a Certified Nursing Assistant (CAN) in 3 Southwest at Bothwell. Snapp said her main career goal is to become a pediatric nurse practitioner. She will be attending the Saline County Career Center LPN program this fall.

Pat Gaunt Scholarship recipients, from left: Rachel Hogan, Kylie Musgrave, Madeline Kindle, Chelsie Snapp, Jacey Etter, Mikayla Letchworth, and Alicia Rayner. The Bothwell Foundation announced the seven recipients at the Nurses Tea Celebration that was held on May 10.

Kylie Musgrave decided she wanted to go into nursing after spending a few hours job shadowing at Bothwell. "Being able to job shadow this occupation was an amazing eye opener to what I wanted to do with my life. This led me to acquire my CNA and further my studies in school," she said. Musgrave will be attending the State Fair Community College Nursing Program next spring.

Rachel Hogan is a CNA in the Progressive Care Unit at Bothwell. Hogan is following in the footsteps of her mother, who also was a nurse. She plans on attending State Fair Community College in the spring to obtain her nursing degree.

Madeline Kindle plans to attend Missouri Valley College this fall to obtain her degree in nursing. "I want to use myself as a vessel that brings good into the world, whether it is simply giving a grieving family member a hug or saving someone's life when they thought there was no life left to live," Kindle said. She currently works as a CNA at Bothwell.

Mikayla Letchworth is a cardiology technician at Bothwell. She plans to attend State Fair Community College to pursue a nursing degree. Her ultimate goal is to become a nurse practitioner or nurse educator.
